Association for Information Science and Technology

What's in it for you?

ASIS&T membership has tangible benefits for information science and technology practitioners, researchers, academics, and students. But an ASIS&T membership is more than that.

It's an opportunity to increase your influence in fields related to information science and technology. It's a place where you can share ideas and promote informed policy on national and international information issues.

It's a way to become part of an international network of diverse members working in every discipline—from computer science and librarianship to engineering and healthcare. The world of information science moves quickly. We want to make sure you're along for the ride!

No matter your interest, there's something here for you

Practitioners. Calling all archivists, librarians, database managers, content managers, information architects, data analysts, and industry professionals. Being a member of ASIS&T connects you (or keeps you connected) to other information and data science professionals. Connect with us and we'll help you stay on top of the latest research and trends by providing you with ongoing opportunities to network and learn.

Researchers & Academics. Being a member of ASIS&T connects you to others engaged in both the research and practice of information science. Plus, your membership will provide you with opportunities to publish, be a leader in the field, and give you ongoing career development opportunities.

Students. As you're gearing up for a career in information science, it's important for you to connect with top academics and professionals in the field. Access to ASIS&T members will give you vital networking opportunities and a place to learn about trends and new ideas. Plus, you'll get opportunities to publish!
